Status
Jane was the daughter of members of the Welsh gentry. Age 14 she was married to Charles Myddelton, a man 10 years older than her, and the couple seem to have spent most of their time at the royal court in London. Jane became renowned amongst the royal court for being a great beauty. She was painted by the artist Sir Peter Lely for a collection of paintings to hang at St James's Palace, now on display at Hampton Court Palace, they are known as the Windsor Beauties. Jane was rumoured to be mistress of the King and as a lady at the
